Norwich Boy, Dwight A. Beebe, Has Mild Disposition at Storrs College—College Term Closes Abruptly.

Students of the Connecticut Agricultural college at Storrs have in most instances left for their respective homes for the holidays. College was not to have closed until Thursday evening, but owing to the fact that a new case of diphtheria has been reported at the college within the past week the students at a mass meeting Tuesday evening voted to leave for their homes.

Dr. William E. Cram, the health officer for the town of Mansfield, did not seem to think that there was any great need of placing restrictions on the students in view of the mildness of the single case, and it was partially upon his advice that the students decided upon the exodus.

Dwight A. Beebe of Norwich is the student who has the disease, and his case was attended by Dr. W. L. Higgins of South Coventry, who was first called Saturday. He has been there a number of times since and from a culture taken deduced the fact that the boy's case was mild one. Young Beebe rooms in Storrs hall and occupies a part of a suite of three rooms.

Saw the Airship.
The recent tale of the Worcester airship navigator who stated that he made a Worcester, Boston and New York trip one night in September, is being the minds of many who live on Windham road near the city limits as to whether a phenomenon noticed about that time was material or not. The object of the secret trip. Members of the J. M. Gager family, near Prospect park, noticed that they thought was material. What caused their attention more particularly was the fact that the lights did not drop below the clouds and the airship was seen to be taking a course. A party of young ladies on the same night, while standing in conversation at the Pleasant street end of the foot bridge, noticed lights high in the air, coming from east to west, apparently over the town of Lebanon. They say that their attention was taken up by fully ten minutes before the lights passed beyond their range of vision. One of them remarked at the time: "It was like one of them airships."
